Re: ADM File #2002-24
Proposed Changes to MRPC 7.3

Dear Clerk:

I believe that a written solicitation should be allowed to be sent to living existing clients, and the family of deceased clients. This is common practice in estate planning. I think it is a good practice. I have some concern about direct communications always stating advertising material on the outside of the envelope, especially if the term "prior professional relationship" is limited to attorney-client relationships. Often, information is sent to referral sources and others, in order to keep them apprised of current developments.

Thank you for considering these comments.

Very truly yours,

GEORGE W. GREGORY, PLLC
